

I am submitting this in support of Title 2 oversight of ISPs. Our nation's are the property of the citizens of the United States. In that, we must insure that fair and equal access to all functions of communication are within the means of the people of our nation without restrictions placed on the citizens for the benefit of corporate digression. Government should maintain oversight of these systems and have the ability to insure that the people have the highest ability to utilize communication systems without having to pay for access to what is public property. I also feel net neutrality is of the utmost importance for the freedom of the people of our nation and for the ability of the people and our nation to be competitive in today's world. Limiting access and censoring content would put the citizens of our nation at an extreme disadvantage to those who are able to access premium content or unfiltered information. I urge the FCC to keep the internet open and unfiltered with oversight by the agencies mandated by the people to insure that we are all able to benefit from communications access guaranteed by net neutrality.
